IELTS uses a 9 band marking system to measure and report test scores. Candidates can expect their results to be declared online 13 calendar days, excluding the day of the examination. What are the things needed for the Speaking test? IELTS is used by many organisations as evidence of competence in English. It depends on your current knowledge of the English language. Also, evaluate your performance and find your weakness and strengths. This is because IELTS on paper requires users to transfer answers to an answer sheet. Check out our IELTS frequently asked questions to understand the nuances of the IELTS exam in a better way. IELTS Academic and General Training testing provide more options to our test takers and stakeholders, while retaining all of the test's current security, trust and integrity. With IELTS on computer, there are more test dates available, test takers can choose IELTS at a time convenient for them, and they will receive their results in three to five days. After the end of each part of the Listening test you will have some time to review your answers. If your organisation is already registered we will reject your request and refer you to the Administrator for your organisation. Even on computer-delivered IELTS tests candidates are provided with rough sheets to take their notes. After learning the complete format familiarize yourself with all the topics that you need to cover while preparing for the test. You will not be able to carry out general searches of the data we hold; you will only be able to search on complete TRF numbers. To make verification more convenient where an organisation needs to verify a large number of TRFs, results for a number of candidates can be downloaded in a single file. At the end of the Listening test, you will have 2 minutes to check your answers. A sample preview of the screens is available by clicking on the following link: TRF Verification and Electronic Score Download Website Demonstration Please note that only IELTS Recognising Organisations can apply to access this service.
